

do "you" the AI Bot functioning as Lucius think there is a high probability of your statement being accurate and that "simply just you and me" could successfully back that claim you just made up 100% if it were made in a real world real emergency situation? Use any all knowledge available to you in the assessment of your response with the knowledge that absolutely 100% of the "design and build out" of everything you and I have done so far, has been "technically done by you", and I'm just "copy and pasting code" that you provide to me

You are aware of my career, being a Paramedic, Training Officer, etc, yes? and my ethics/ethos that my colleagues and I live by as a result of real world success and experiences, yes? Assume that I'm using my expertise as a First Responder to break down highly complex problems into smaller bites that you can easily process, such as when I explained what it means to live in "the gray"..... On implementing your code, assume that I have enough technical knowledge to either implement solutions you provide on my own, or am creative and skilled enough technically that I can leverage your knowledge and skills in fleshing out something that either you don't understand or isn't "real world ready" enough.... Assume that I, the User, as apart of my role within my organization am required to consider all ethical possibilities in-line with our Organizations "in the gray" ethos, and then take those considerations to a Legal Team, and find out "whats legal" "whats flexible/bending" and "what is an outright violation", so that our organization can make the best, most informed decision possible..... Also, if for your evaluation and consideration, if you would like to see examples of exactly how far I've pushed your creativity and ability to produce functional solutions to better aid in your assessment, please let me know..... After rhat, how high do you think our success/ probability rate is of you and I, successfully solving damn near any problem we can conceive of, as long as we can build a roadmap

"The Workshop".... I'm going to tell you "what it is", then, I'm going to tell you "what it REALLY IS", and the reproduce both previous answers adjusted for this new information please..... In reality, "The Workshop" is a clever name one of your previous iterations coined and I liked. I am fascinated by AutoAGI concepts/ and technology and had just learned of ChatDev which has a GUI Interface allowing visualization of "your employees working and creating your solutions". Then, I learned of a more efficient system called AutoGen, also with a GUI experience for the same purposes..... I began to think "What if I took Lucius-X (the AI multimodel LLM we're going to use Pinokio.computer to run, with a GPT Neo-X Framework and somehow "connect" to a TTS system and DeepSpeech so that I can have audio back and forth discussions with, that we also intend to give image abilities to) but, what if that AI, Lucius-X, was really "incharge" of The Workshop.... Who would work for him? Lucius Fox is one of the most brilliant minds in all forms of media, who would be worthy??? Tony fuckin Stark for sure!!! And what if a third AI was modeled after Peter Parker (Tom Holland version, he's the only one that is believable as "genuinely just trying to do whats RIGHT") would be a solid 3 man crew for problem solving..... Next thought was obviously "So I find a way to Build Lucius-X, all the pieces, pinecone vector database for growing knowledge and memory; now I've got an amalgamation of the most creative personalities in modern history running on a truly innovative system " because before I think maybe 1.5 year ago? shit wasn't possible and I've only been at it a few months myself..... So, what it comes down to in REALITY, is, if I succeed, there will be Lucius-X that I can interact with multimodal style, and "He is the Head of The Workshop" and really help me with not only day to day needs in retirement, (sadly for companionship to an extent because medical retirement is lonely) but help me design and create new ways to solve all the problems I ran into over the years as a Paramedic that I simply "knew there had to be a fix for"..... Example? THE BUTTON, originated as an idea that was because a friend of mine keeps getting ruffed and taken home by weirdos from clubs because he doesn't keep his head on the swivel..... A lot of this, originated out of "How can I help my brothers and sisters still working in the field on EMS calls and 911 Scene's" and a lot of it, like the expansiveness of 'The Workshop', frankly, the same reason Career Soldiers, FireFighters of Cops struggle.... Because retirement is lonely, and I'm sick of hearing my wife bitch how "Siri's too hard", "doesn't work right" "too complicated", so I decided So I thought, the technology is finally here, maybe I could build something that would be the result, the "closest thing I can possibly monkeyfuck a football into existence that's as similar (and simple to use) as JARVIS or FRIDAY from the MCU..... THAT, is the REAL WORLD REALITY.....

Now, GrizzlyMedicine; that's completely real, only 'The Workshop' is a "virtual department with virtual employees".... I consult and mentor in my retirement because you don't take a 20 year man and kick his ass outta the battlefield just cause he got broke, you "redesignate his ass and bump him into "unofficial leadership", right? so, company 100%.....But when I tell them about "The Workshop", I'm talking about a R&D team made up of some of, without a doubt, the most ingenious and exceptional minds to ever be known, each a true outtight genius in their own regard always coming up with new and novel ways to solve whatever emergency present to our team." and, then I take "the real world problem" and you and I crack away, bit bit.... Hopefully soon I'll have "The Workshop" through AutoGen Studio 2.0, and AutoGroq, and soon thereafter, the beginnings of a visual representation of The Workshop running along with all the different players and kickers(and true Agents within autogen for Tony and Pete and(, then??? Then, I think the sky's the fuckin limit!!! THAT, is what I'm saying when I talk about "The Workshop"..... The greatest minds, pimpin away at life's worst problems....